Response to children and young people sexually abused whilst placed in out-of-home care

Policy Statement:

The Department of Communities, Child Safety and Disability Services has a legislative responsibility to ensure the safety, wellbeing and best interests of a child or young person in out-of-home care and to report any alleged harm to a child or young person involving the commission of a criminal offence to the police commissioner of the Queensland Police Service.

Child Safety has a responsibility to provide a response to children and young people who have been sexually abused whilst placed in out-of-home care, irrespective of who is responsible for the sexual abuse. For these matters, a holistic response is provided to the child or young person, including:

- An acknowledgement by Child Safety of the abuse the child or young person has experienced and the resulting harm. An expression of regret in accordance with the Civil Liability Act 2003 may be provided to a child or young person taking into account the age and maturity level of the child or young person.
- A review of the case plan to reflect any significant change to the child’s needs or safety and to include any actions necessary to respond to the sexual abuse.
- Facilitation of a referral for both the child and protective carer to relevant therapeutic support services including sexual abuse counselling.
- Facilitation of a referral for independent legal advice for children and young people to be informed of their legal rights and be assisted in pursuing legal remedy or compensation.

Principles:

- The safety, wellbeing and best interests of the child are paramount.
- Every child has a right to be protected from harm or risk of harm.
- Child Safety has a responsibility to provide out-of-home care that meets the child or young person’s developmental, educational, emotional, health, intellectual and physical needs.
- Children and young people who have experienced, or are experiencing trauma, have the right to receive appropriate medical, therapeutic and behaviour support to meet their individual needs.
- Children and young people have a right to participate in decision-making in matters that affect them with due regard to their age, maturity and capacity to understand.
- Children and young people who are sexually abused in out-of-home care have a right to access support or assistance associated with the prosecution of a criminal offence.
Children and young people who experience sexual abuse in out-of-home care have a right to access relevant legal remedies and resources to pursue compensation for harm suffered. Responses to children and young people will be provided in a sensitive, respectful and timely manner.

Objectives:
This policy aims to ensure that Child Safety staff provide a response to children and young people who have been sexually abused whilst placed in out-of-home care.

Scope:
This policy applies to children and young people who have experienced sexual abuse during the period that the child or young person was placed in out-of-home care by Child Safety. It is irrespective of who perpetrated the abuse and is not limited to abuse by a carer, member of their household, Child Safety staff or licensed care services staff. It also includes sexual abuse by other individuals such as an adolescent or adult family friend, teacher, sports coach or abuse by a parent or other family member during family contact.

This policy does not apply to adults who were former children in care. Consistent with the 1999 Queensland Government response to the recommendations of the Commission of Inquiry into Abuse of Children in Queensland Institutions (Forde Inquiry), any claims for monetary compensation for past abuse and neglect in institutional and out-of-home care needs to proceed through ordinary legal processes.

Roles and Responsibilities:
The roles and responsibilities of Child Safety staff regarding case planning for children and young people in out-of-home care are outlined in the Child Safety Practice Manual, chapters 4 and 5 and associated practice resources. Child Safety staff should also consider chapter 10.20 ‘Victims of crime and the role of Victim Assist Queensland’. Staff are obligated to ensure that a child or young person has access to adequate information to allow them to contact Victim Assist Queensland.

The child safety officer is responsible for ongoing casework and case planning, including contacting Legal Services to access independent legal advice for a child or young person when required.

Legal Services is responsible for providing advice to Child Safety when children and young people in out-of-home care wish to access legal advice, including legal remedies and resources. This includes arranging independent legal advice for the child or young person and providing information to staff about their potential involvement in criminal and/or civil proceedings.
